Joint Field Day Held At Woodhull High School Friday

District No. 1 and outlying schools unite for annual sports event — Superintendent Frank Smith in charge of athletic features—Program held in auditorium after picnic lunch at noon.

District No. 1 and outlying districts enjoyed the annual Field Day activities at the Woodhull High School Friday. The program of the day was somewhat changed this year as the sports were scheduled for the morning and the program given in the afternoon.

During the luncheon hour picnic groups were scattered about the school grounds and nearby places. This part of the day proves to be one of the enjoyable features of the occasion.

Results in the sport events in charge of Superintendent Frank Smith are as follows:

Broad Jump—Girls

10 to 12 years—Daisy Miller 1st, Marion Mason, 2nd.

Broad Jump—Boys

9 years and under—Ford Jackson 1st, Phillip Dann 2nd; 10 to 12 years—Junior Card 1st, Luther Thomas 2nd; 13 years and over—Robert Hallett 1st, Paul Cook 2nd; high school—Myron Leach 1st, Robert Olin 2nd.

High Jump

9 years and under—Ford Jackson 1st, Phillip Dann 2nd; 10 to 12 years— Douglas Sly 1st, Chester Cook 2nd; over 12 years in the grades — Charles Sahrles 1st, Paul Cook 2nd; high school — Fay Hargrave 1st, Earle Wheatcraft 2nd.

Races—Girls

10 to 12 years—Pauline Mason 1st; 5 to 9 years—Elvera Root 1st, Phyllis Krise 2nd; 13 years and over—Eleanor Andrews 1st, Carmen Hackett, 2nd; high school girls—Erma Baker, 1st, Doris Baker 2nd.

Races—Boys

9 years and under—Phillip Dann 1st, Fred Marts 2nd; 10 to 12 years—Douglas Sly 1st, Harlan Hadley 2nd; 13 to 15 years—Robert Hallett 1st, Paul Cooke 2nd; high school—Chester Jordan 1st, Earl Wheatcraft, 2d.

An interesting program was given by the pupils from several districts in the auditorium, which was well filled.

The numbers were given as follows:

Song — "Star Spangled Banner", assembly; Welcome—Prof Roy J. Gotham; song—harmonica accompaniment, pupils of Brady district; "A Health Pledge"—Brown district No. 3; song—"Riding the Old Texas Trail", 6 pupils of district No. 4; dialogue—"Flag Day", 7 pupils of district No. 7; instrumental—"Honolulu Dreamy Day", Hawaiian guitar, Murray Sherman, district No. 12; recitation— "Where Maude Erred", pupil from Merchant district No. 10; dialogue—"Our Flag", followed by two stanzas of "America", 5 pupils, Harder district No. 5; dialogue —"The Flag", 2 pupils, district No. 16; song—"Wreck of No. 9", district 4; play—"The White-washing Scene" from Tom Sawyer, Bebout district No. 11; song "Red Wing", district 6; play—"The Health Parade", district 15; song—"Red River Valley", piano accompaniment, Irena Cook, violin, Paul Cook; Flag Salute, recitation— "When I Salute the Flag" and song "Red, White and Blue", district No. 9.

Announcements were made by Mr. Gotham regarding the 8th grade commencement and extending an invitation to any pupils of the districts who complete their preliminary certificate to participate in the graduation exercises to be held in the high school auditorium Monday evening.

Superintendent Smith was called upon and gave an interesting talk. He spoke briefly on "True Patriotism" and of the great responsibility of teachers because of their contact with the children. He states there are no excuses for children not receiving a high school education. During the past school year there have been no employment certificates issued pupils of the Woodhull school and only two certificates in the supervisory district. After September, 1936 there will be no employment certificates issued.

Woodhull Stars Recess For Summer

A regular session of Woodhull Chapter C. E. S. was held Saturday evening with Worthy Matron Mrs. Lena Gardner presiding.

Dairymen's League Hears Six-Point Program, Designed For Fair Prices

"Fair Price" is one that is constant with purchasing power, says F. H. Sexauer, League president—Warns against government control to bring permanent relief—Flays enemies of farm organuizations.

Syracuse, June 20—A six point program to be carried on by the 40,000 members of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., to attain the organization's objective of "a fair price for milk" was presented by Fred H. Sexauer, president, to the 3,000 members attending the association's annual meeting here today.

Mr. Sexauer defined a fair price for milk as one which will provide "a high standard of living on the farm;" a price which will enable farmers to buy the necessities of life and provide proper education and comfort for their families.

Following is Mr. Sexauer's six point program.

"1—We must continue our program for monetary reform. A managed currency and commodity dollar are vital to a prosperous, stable agriculture and an employed and prosperous laber.

Agricultural legislation to put agriculture on a parity with industry must be passed and soundly administered.

"3—Farm organization must be protected and not put on the defensive in all state and federal legislation.

"4—We must build favorable public opinion for milk, dairymen and dairy cooperatives.

"5—We must build closer cooperation between all farm organizations and agencies serving farmers.

"6—As a basis for all this, we must build a better organization."

"The objective of the dairymen's League," said Mr. Sexauer, "is to bring about a standard of living on farms which combines fair prices, economic production and broad living, including home making and social functions of life, without any of these a standard of living fails to reach that level which the farm family desires and which in a country as rich in raw materials, facilities and brains as this one is, is rightfully theirs."

To achieve this standard of living it is necessary to prevent declines in the price of milk greater than the decline in cost of things which farmers buy, said Mr. Sexauer; a fair price is one that is constant with purchasing power year after year.

Complete Hard Road To Sterle Olin Farm

A strip of permanent improved road has been completed on the road to the Sterle Olin farm which connects onto the Woodhull-Osceola highway. The parts improved have a stone base with gravel top. The road will now be passable at all times of the year which has not been the case before.

Dogs Kill Sheep In Calkins Flock

Dogs did considerable damage Saturday night to the flock of sheep belonging to Earl Calkins. Sunday morning when Mr. Calkins went to the pasture to look after the sheep he found eight lambs and two ewes dead or so severely injured they had to be killed, several others had been bitten but less seriously. These are being cared for in hpoes of recovery. Only the week before dogs were reported to have been in the flock and Mr. Calkins found one of the number dead.

Although adjustment has been made on the loss it fails to cover the actual damage.

Southern Tier News Gives Banquet For Correspondents

News writers for Addison Advertiser-Woodhull Sentinel guests at unique gathering in American House Friday—Press Association Secretary speaks—Scribes entertained at Avon Theatre after trip through printing plant.

A most unique gathering of newspaper people was held in Addison Friday, June 14 when the Southern Tier News, Inc., held a family dinner for its employees and the correspondents of the Addison Advertiser and Woodhull Sentinel. Sixty people attended the dinner held in the town's historic old American House. A thirty-two piece orchestra under the leadership of F. Arden Burt, furnished music.

The dinner was planned by Southern Tier News as a tribute to the faithful service of its 49 correspondents, a large percentage of whom were present. A full evening's entertainment was provided, beginning with the dinner and including a tour of the newspaper plant and admission to the Avon Theatre. The principal speaker of the evening was Frank A. Taber, editor of the East Aurora Advertiser and secretary of the Western New York Publishers' Association.

The program at dinner opened with words of welcome by Maurice E. Miller, president of Southern Tier News and editor of the Addison Advertiser; self introduction of the guests and a half hour of music by the orchestra. Mr. Taber spoke on the subject, Among Ourselves, telling many incidents of his own life experience as a newspaper writer. He impressed the newspeople with the need for getting the real truth about every news story, and securing all the important details.

Mr. Taber said in part:

"What interests me most in community nemspaper work, is the chance of helping to build up the community—of making it a better place in which to live. We can pass the little, gossipy things in life, the things that hurt, and devote ourselves to reporting the real live things that are happening, in the village and on the surrounding farms. For instance, there is a farmer who is doing strip cropping in an effort to stop and prevent soil erosion. Many similar items make excellent news items.

"The correspondent, I say, is a journalist. The journalist has a duty to the reader. The duty is to report truthfully whatever there is to report. Among younger writers, particularly, there is a tendency to jot down whatever they hear, oftentimes gossip. Try to verify the in-

PAROLE BOARDS

The cause of prison parole may take a decided set-back through the disclosures of the Weyerhauser kidnaping case. Both Harmon Waley and William Mahan were ex-convicts who had repeatedly abused the paroles granted them by officials with more sympathy than judgment.

The case of Waley especially exemplifies how rapidly it is possible for a young man to rise to the top of the criminal profession through the helping hands of parole boards. Waley, although still in his early twenties, has piled up a notorious record of law violations in his brief life and can be said to have reaped the full reward of parole assininity. He started of course as a first offender, gaining kindergarten training in a reform school from which he graduated in a few months with his first diploma issued by a parole board which evidently considered a little chastisement was better than long punishment.

The parole board should not be greatly criticized for this first parole, but when Waley continued to get into trouble and was repeatedly paroled after ridiculously short terms in prison, the culpability of the parole board increased. Waley by his many trips in and out of prison was showing himself to be a habitual offender and as such should have been denied the leniency of his fellow men. He was not being reformed by the modern, scientific treatment accorded law-breakers, hence did not deserve to regain his freedom on short notice.

In fact Waley was taking a series of short courses in the various institutions to which he was committed, learning quickly from more experienced offenders all the fine points of law violation. He learned [illegible] be [illegible] a model prisoner while inside the b[illegible] the most effective way to quickly put the [illegible] mind him. But Waley was not being reformed by the lenient treatment—he was merely "working" the soft-headed parole board members.

It is probable crime has been greatly augmented during the past ten years by the misapplication of the parole function. Used with discretion the idea of parole of young prisoners would undoubtedly be a step in the right direction. The trouble is most parole boards are influenced more by sentiment than reason. Paroled prisoners are not kept track of closely enough by proper persons to assure their keeping in the straight and narrow way. If the parole system ever is to become successful we must have better supervision of prisoners out on their honor, and those who violate their pledges should be actually punished.

The necessary thing is to be able to distinguish between men who have made a mistake and men that are inherently lawbreakers. Until we can get more sense and less baseless sentimentality in the prison parole boards, we shall continue to find they are intruments for actually spreading the crime wave.

HIGH FOOD PRICES

In New York City and other metropolitan centers housewives have combined recently to stage consumer strikes against the rapidly rising cost of foodstuffs, especially meats that have rocketed skyward at a tremendous rate during the past year. Packing houses have been picketed and meat markets beseiged with infuriated women trying to bring prices back to the level of a few months ago.

In the long run this effort will have little if any effect upon the cost of the average person's Sunday roast of beef, for the laws of scarcity enacted in Washington have been unexpectedly overshadowed by natural forces, and the combination is bringing us face to face with the fact living expenses have advanced out of all proportion to any gain in business activity through the last year.

During the year preceding January 1, 1935 the U. S. total of cattle and calves has been reduced by drought some 11 per cent. In the same period of twelve months our hogs have dwindled under the manipulations of AAA and the effects of the drought, from 57,177,000 head to 37,007,000 head, the smallest in 50 years. Hogs that cost the packer $3.65 a cwt a year ago cost him $10.15 last week, while he paid 50% more for cattle than during the same week a year ago.

Naturally the western farmer has received some benefit from the increased prices the consumer is now forced to pay, but his profit is not in proportion with the burden which has been laid upon the consumer. Had Nature taken its course through the past two years the ravages of the drought would have been sufficient to reduce our cattle and hog supply, yet retail prices might not have rocketed so high as they have. Processing taxes levied in Washington combined with natural, periodic fluctuations in cattle and hog population has brought us face to face with a real shortage of foodstuffs.

Not only have the consumers been forced to pay exorbitant prices for the necessities of life, but the producers of the nation also have lost. The gospel of scarcity compounded for Washington politicians by the college professor group working with Secretary Wallace, has caused great quantities of grain to be IMPORTED into America and burdened every person who eats. High food prices are always expected, unpleasant though they may be, during prosperity. High prices and depression incomes coming at the same time, are a curse brought upon the American people by the senseless manipulations of the New Deal.

BACK TO FUNDAMENTALS

The grass roots convention held in Illinois last week was a notable affair for more than one reason. In the first place the delegates, fully 90 per cent of them, paid their own expenses, digging deeply, many of them, into family treasuries for the funds to get to Springfield and back.

The convention expenses, while in session, were paid by numerous small donations, and by the actual payment by the delegates for the privilege of participating. Unlike the usual political convention a majority of the delegates were not professional politicians, many of them wore buttons reading: "No payroller; just a taxpayer." Besides the actual delegates from the ten states the convention represented there were observers from every other commonwealth in the Union, who expressed the belief this district meeting would be followed by similar gatherings in every section of the country.

The theme of the convention started with the conviction that "our present troubles are not due to any inherent defects in our American system" and ran along the vein exaltation of the traditional American way of allowing free competitive enterprise under the federal constitution.

Three paragraphs stand out particularly:

"We believe in individualism and in individual enterprise, as opposed to communism, socialism, fascism or any other form of collectivism, no matter in what form it masquerades, whether as a 'New Deal' or a 'planned economy' or otherwise."

"We believe that our American system of free enterprise is the one above all others capable of providing the great mass of the people with a substantially higher standard of living and greater economic security, without the loss of freedom, through an ever-widening distribution of property ownership among American families."

"We believe that once economic freedom is destroyed, political liberty must suffer the same fate and that, aside from its contribution to material progress, there is a moral value to liberty which justifies any sacrifice to preserve it."

It is one thing to formulate a philosophy and quite another to put it into practice. Men can agree more readily upon generalities than upon policies. It is for this reason that so many political documents tend to lose themselves in vague redundancies. Precision, conciseness, can only form clear conceptions.

The grass roots delegates are therefore to be particularly commended upon the admirable definiteness of a number of their resolutions. Economy; a balanced budget; a sound currency stabilized, not at the whim of the president or the secretary of the treasury, but by congress—these are clear, these are concise. "The immediate withdrawal of government from competition with private industry" — who can doubt what that means? "The preservation of the competitive system, protected against monopoly by the vigorous enforcement of antitrust laws"; "the rigid enforcement of all laws, civil and criminal, to prevent and punish dishonest or unfair practices in business, industry and finance"—who can misunderstand that?

BACK TO RELIGION

The longer I sit at the feet of the sociologist, the economist and the priests of politics, the farther I am driven back to religion. I am sure that religion has done far more social good than the economists or the planner will ever do, because, more than any other force, it has aroused and fortified the individual conscience. And I do not believe that society can ever rise higher than the individuals which compose it.

Without individual honesty, there can be no health in the state. Laws, however ingenious, however enforced, cannot make men honest. The man who is honest, not because it is the best policy but because it gives him pleasure, spreads more honesty than could a thousand policemen. Kindness, generosity, good will — such qualities are as infectious as the deadliest disease. Not even the wild beast is immune to them.

Probable Issues for 1936

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE issue for next year's Presidential campaign, as formulated by the Mid-West Conference of Republicans and ex-Governor Frank Lowden of Illinois, is put mainly in terms of "states' rights.' The issue as set forth in the formal resolutions is much broader than that, but "states' rights" is the issue, for the present at least.

But the issue as it will be in the campaign next year will not be the simple one of "states' rights." President Roosevelt and the New Dealers will not permit it to be so clear.

It is quite true that the direct way to accomplish what Mr. Roosevelt has in mind would be a simple amendment to the Constitution, taking away much of the present rights of the states over industry and business. It is quite true that the mechanics of bringing about such an amendment would be simple and speedy—provided the people want the change.

But a part of the process of adopting a constitutional amendment consists of ratification by three-fourths of the states. The very great probability is that not three-fourths of the states would adopt an amendment worded for the direct purpose of taking away rights of states.

The objective that Mr. Roosevelt described at his famous press conference was a condition in which the Federal government shall have practically unlimited control over commerce, industry and business. Mr. Roosevelt said that this is the only condition in which the program he has in mind can be carried out. The objective he described was therefore precisely the same objective that would be accomplished by a straightforward constitutional amendment taking away much of the rights of the states. Mr. Roosevelt, however, pointedly avoided saying that this would be the path he would set out on. On the contrary, he stated specifically that there is another way. He avoided saying what is the other way that he has in mind.

The question then is, what is this other way?

We do not know yet. It will probably take the form of a broad attack on the Constitution as a whole, or a broad undermining of the powers now exercised by the Supreme Court.

Whatever the path Mr. Roosevelt takes will be the issue for next year as Mr. Roosevelt and the New Dealers will try to make it. The Republicans will try to make the issue "states' rights."

But Mr. Roosevelt and the New Dealers will try to make it something that accomplishes elimination of states' rights in another way, and something that is much broader than the elimination of states' rights. It will include fundamental changes which will make it, as Mr. Roosevelt said, the greatest issue before the country in this generation.

A collateral question is whether Mr. Roosevelt will go forward along the line of this issue; or whether he will back away from the position he took at the press conference and be silent and inactive about it. The answer is probably that he will not permanently back away. The same restless impulsiveness that led him to speak as he did at the press conference will move him again from time to time.

All the New Dealers know—and it is a simple fact for all to bear in mind—that the New Deal cannot possibly succeed except by achieving centralized power at Washington. They have always known, and since the Supreme Court decisions know better than ever, that the New Deal cannot come to fruit under a condition in which the courts are an equal, co-ordinate branch of the government or in which the courts have the independence and authority that courts possess under the American system. However they phrase their issue, or dress it up, or obscure it, it will include an assault on the independence of the courts and the limiting of states' rights so as to have centralized power at Washington.

There are two conditions that might avert the issue. The Democratic leaders in Congress, who are almost all conservative, might assert themselves and take real control of Congress. There are some faint signs of their doing this.

Revival of prosperity would cause the country to turn away from radical proposals for fundamental change. One of the disturbing conditions is the fact that the radicals in the Administration can hardly be expected to work whole-heartedly for recovery. As between recovery and reform they have always said they prefer reform.

Yet, if Mr. Roosevelt's mood would only permit him to see it, recovery would be the best fortune that could come to him, the strongest assurance of his re-election.

Judges as Presidential Candidates

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IN SUMMING up the "net results" of the Grass Roots conference, Mr. Theodore Wallen, a Washington correspondent, said among other things:

It tended to set the stage for the nomination of a strict constructionist of the Constitution, thus virtually eliminating Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone of the Supreme Court while leaving Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts in a preferred position.

Mr. Wallen is an accurate correspondent and his report faithfully reflects the fact that there is a considerable interest in the idea of going to the Supreme Court for the Republican candidate in 1936. The idea is that Mr. Justice Roberts, having decided against New Deal measures, is to run as the savior of the Constitution.

* * *

While nothing may come of this boom, the mere fact that it is seriously considered is certain to cause acute embarrassment to the Supreme Court as a whole and to Mr. Justice Roberts in particular. It means that as long as the boom lasts every vote cast by Mr. Justice Roberts or Mr. Justice Stone will be examined by the politicians and by the political commentators for its bearing upon the campaign of 1936. These judges have still to sit in judgment upon much of the New Deal. Could anything be more unfair to them, more harmful to the court, or more destructive of popular confidence in its verdicts than to create a situation where two of the justices are treated as candidates who stand to win or lose the greatest political office in the land? And what could be less edifying than a political campaign in which a justice of the Supreme Court was defending his judicial opinions from the end of a railroad car?

It is true that the present Chief Justice, Mr. Hughes, left the Supreme Court in 1916 to accept the Republican nomination. There are few, I believe, who would say that he established a good precedent. But at least this can be said for Mr. Hughes in 1916. The issues of the day turned on neutrality and war, and the opinions of the court were not involved in the partisan conflict. But now it is proposed to make the campaign on the very issues which the court is called upon to decide, and it is nothing less than an outrage to suggest that a member of that court should be a partisan candidate in such a campaign.

* * *

The authority of the court is one of the most extraordinary things in the history of government. Here are nine men who, without physical power of any kind, can, under certain conditions, override the will of Congress and the President. Their verdicts are obeyed absolutely. On what does the power of the court rest? It rests on the conviction of the people that the court interprets the disinterested and considered and permanent judgment of the people as against the momentary, impulsive, expedient, and short-sighted opinions of temporary majorities. In the annals of democracy the court stands forth as a unique institution. For the first time in the history of popular government the people themselves have imposed upon themselves a comprehensive restraint to which they willingly submit. This is a very great thing. The court represents the people's own moral conviction that they must not act hastily or arbitrarily, that there must always be an appeal from Philip drunk to Philip sober, that the voice of reason must in the end prevail over the prompting of appetite and of impulse.

All of this depends upon the people's own belief that the court is above all ordinary worldly temptation. Everything has been done to give the justices independence, inviolability and prestige so that they may be, and so that they shall be believed to be, beyond the daily struggle in political affairs. And yet now the fervent defenders of the Constitution are seriously considering the nomination as an opponent of the New Deal of a judge who must sit in judgment on the New Deal.

* * *

The mere talk about this boom creates mischief so serious that it may require some decisive action to dispose of it. The court is adjourned for the summer. But if, when the court reconvenes in the autumn, the boom has not been completely deflated, Mr. Justice Roberts will be compelled to take notice. No one knows better than he, a man of the highest judicial integrity and sensibility, that he cannot sit in judgment on the Democratic Administration and continue to be discussed as a Republican candidate. If the boom is not destroyed first by responsible Republican leaders, his choice will be to destroy it himself or to resign from the bench.

There ought not to be any real hesitation about the proper course. Now is a very good time to put an end once and for all to the idea that justices of the Supreme Court are available candidates for political office. This would make a very good first plank in a program to defend the Constitution and the Supreme Court as its final interpreter. A man who accepts appointment to the Supreme Court should be regarded as having forever renounced all other worldly ambitions. The nature of the institution demands that candidates for appointment, the justices are appointed, and the nation, should look upon the court as the summit of a career beyond which there is nothing in the way of office, honor, or material gain to be won or lost.

Republican Drive Continues— Praise "Grass Roots" Conference

Two important Republican events feature this week, the first being the annual convention of the Association of New York State Young Republican Clubs, to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at Alexandria Bay, and the second the "Camp Meeting" of Republican members of the Legislature and their guests, to be held at Star Lake, St. Lawrence County, Saturday and Sunday.

Assemblyman Maurice Whitney of Rensselaer, is chairman of the Legislative "Camp Meeting", and C. Burr Reed of Dunkirk, secretary to former Speaker Joseph A. McGinnies, is the executive secretary. Describing the purpose of the camp meeting, which will be attended by Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton and other party leaders, Mr. Whitney said:

"This meeting is being held to promote harmony and friendship among the Republicans. Its purpose is to bring about a closer relationship and better understanding among members of the G. O. P."

A featured speaker at the Alexandria Bay conference will be Chairman Eaton who is expected to pave the way for closer cooperation between Young Republican groups and the State Committee.

Hilles Applaud Creed of "Grass Roots"

Charles D. Hilles, veteran Republican National Committeeman from New York State, broke his astute political silence last week when, in a public statement, he hailed the platform of the Springfield, Ill., "Grass Roots" Conference as "the first effective public stirring of revolt against undue extension of the powers of the President". In his statement Mr. Hilles, referring to the principles expressed, said in part:

"It is significant that the emphasis (in the "grass roots" creed) was not placed upon lack of employment for millions of willing hands, or artificial restrictions upon agriculture, or upon the stagnation of business, all of which were deplored—but upon the peril to the Republic of permitting an emergency grant of executive powers to become permanent — powers assumed and exercised by the Federal Administration for the avowed purpose of dealing with the depression.

"Until the recent ringing decision of the Supreme Court", Mr. Hilles went on, "the extension of powers had been so widespread as to have brought the country into a state of despotic government. Long afflicted by the economic depression, the people of the Middle West are uniting with those of every other section in a demand for limitations on official power which are essential safeguards of a free government, and are uniting in a call for a return of the assured order and tranquil prosperity of the Calvin Coolidge era."

Another View

The New York Young Republican Club also issued a statement having to do with the Illinois conference, gently chiding the "grass-rooters" for "ducking" the unemployment issue, and declaring, "We cannot be content with the Hoover philosophy of 1928 if we are to fulfill our responsibility." The Young Republican "creed", as issued by Mr. Sibley, contains three principles and eleven measures, somewhat more specific than the Illinois recommendations. The three principles enunciated follows:

"1. The maintenance of our constitutional safeguards of individual liberty of state and local rights, and of the separations of powers and authority between the legislative, executive and judicial branches of our federal government, is our only protection against executive bureaucracy and dictatorship.

"2. The creation of more wealth for distribution among the people generally will be accomplished by increasing, rather than restricting the production of goods.

"3. Individual happiness and social well-being, and not the acquisition of wealth, must be the guiding principle of government. Human welfare must prevail over the rights of property when the two conflict."

Mack Committee Disclosures

Recent disclosures brought out by the joint legislative committee to investigate public utilities, wherein the Consolidated Gas Company acquired the Westchester Lighting Company in 1904 without "spending a cent in cash", gives impetus to the often-repeated demands of Senator George R. Fearon and Assemblyman Ives to investigate the Public Service Commission. All during the last session, Senator Fearon was particularly vituperative in demanding a probe of the Public Service Commission, branding it a rendezvous for "the Democratic faithful desirous of taking their ease for life." Judge Mack, the Syracuse Senator has frequently pointed out, is constantly promising such an investigation but, says Mr. Fearon, "it never happens".

Chauncey Hammond to Take Field

Assemblyman Chauncey Hammond of Elmira proved himself to be such a good orator at the recent Republican rally in that city, that Chairman Eaton has asked him to become a member of the State Committee's Speakers' Bureau. The whimsical Hammond, a finished orator, has consented.

Capitol "Shocks"

The popular indoor sport at the State Capitol these days is for secretaries, clerks and other officials to sit back and watch visitors to the various offices experience the "electric treatment". This "treatment" follows when pep-filled visitors stride manfully into the offices, shoes brushing rapidly over the thick rugs which cover office floors. When, upon coming to a halt in any given office, they touch a piece of metal, things happen. Sparks shoot from fingers, some of the sparks, believe it or not, being more than a quarter of an inch long. "Ouchs", "Ohs" and "Wows" follow with delightful promptness and the Capitol veterans discreetly cover wide grins.

"When milk is on a fair basis farmers prosper, the country prospers and happiness and well being abound," he said. "During the last year we have been nearer a fair price, but we have not reached the goal. Last year's drought helped toward it, but such aid cannot be depended upon to continue."

Mr. Sexauer discussed in detail the factors entering into the price of milk. He enumerated production costs, weather and other natural hazards of the dairy business, advantageous marketing and crops.

Consumer purchasing power is a big facter, he said, for when men are not working thay cannot buy milk for their families. The only persons genuinely interested in the price of milk are farmers, he said, asserting that the politician may display interest to the extent of his own political well-being; the housewife may be interested to the extent of her altruism, but that is likely to wane, and after all the consumers' interest is not the same as that of the producer.

Labor, said Mr. Sexauer, long ago found that they were the only ones interested in their rate of wages. They found out that as individuals they could do little to help themselves, but that organized they were powerful. Farmers must make similiar use of their organizations, must give them unlimited strength and support.

Mr. Sexauer warned against dependence upon government control to bring farmers fair prices. Consumers are more numerous than farmers, he said, and politicians are given to listening to the greater number.

The League's president flayed the enemies of the farmers' organizations. He went into considerable detail to describe the reasons for the animosity of various groups. He told why a farm paper publisher has become an enemy of the Dairymen's League, saying that the publisher did so because it decreased his power. Because the Association fights for beneficial legislation to farmers, which sometimes embarrasses politicians, they become enemies. Because the Dairymen's League has taken a position that money is not a commodity, but a medium of exchange, and that Congress, not bankers, should establish the value of money, some groups in the feed and seed business, who fear purchasing cooperatives, fight the League because of their selfish interest, he said.

Many of these groups, Mr. Sexauer said, join with certain milk dealers in their fight against cooperation. The dealers oppose the organization because of the threat to their control of the whole dairy industry. Using the "divide to conquer" tactics that are as old as civilization the enemies of farmers' progress know no limits in their attempts to prevent dairymen from merging their strength in one mighty organization. The association is constantly under attack, he said, and told of attempts in two states this year to enact legislation which would have prevented the Dairymen's League from operating for the best interests of farmers.

To carry out the program which he had presented, Mr. Sexauer said there is work for every member of the Association. Each unit and each individual must assume responsibility to build the organization and carry forward the drive for a better standard of living on farms.

Aldrich Class Meets At Andrew Hill's

Ladies Night was observed by the Aldrich Class of the Addison Baptist Church Friday evening, when the regular monthly meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hill. A large number were present.

A softball match between two selected teams opened the evening's program. The entire group then gathered around the outdoor campfire and musical numbers were furnished by Francis Jones, accordion, Leon Andrews, Carlton Ford, Robert Hill, guitars, Oscar Hill and the Rev. Kenneth E. Arnold, violins.

Francis Jones presided at the business meeting which followed. Plans were made to paint the church and parsonage in the near future. A weiner roast brought the evening's entertainment to a close.

Dairymen Discuss Bull Association

A meeting to discuss the advantages and method of organization of bull associations will be held in the Steuben County Farm Bureau office Friday afternoon, June 21. This meeting is held at the request of scores of dairymen who have indicated an interest in the cooperative ownership of good bulls.

The usual procedure is for about three or four dairymen to purchase or to own their herd sires in partnership and to rotate these bulls among the several herds of the ring. By that method each member of the group gets the service of several bulls for the cost of one.

Continuous production records are kept on each herd in the group with the result that the transmitting ability of each bull is determined, and the desirable bulls are maintained in service. This procedure is impossible for the average dairyman, which accounts for the fact that so many good bulls are slaughtered before their real value is established.

All dairymen who are interested in this plan should attend the meeting which is held not only to explain the operations of bull associations but to determine those who are interested, and to set up tentative groups.

The meeting will begin at two o'clock. K. L. Turk will be in attendance.

Southern Tier News Gives Banquet For Correspondents

formation you get, it is always the best policy. Don't ask a neighber. A good idea is to contact the principal himself or herself. Then you can be sure of reporting the incident as correctly as possible."

Mr. Taber called attention to the ease of skipping a great deal of excellent news material because of failure to recognize and appreciate its news value. "There is", he emphasized, "A need for correspondents to be alert and faithful to their tasks, if the future of the weekly newspaper is to be protected. Right now the most interesting part of the weekly newspaper is that which comes in from the rural sections." As a guiding rule, he outlined the five points which every news story should answer—who, what, where, when and why or how. In closing, he commended to the correspondents the thought expressed in the masthead carried by the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, quoted from Byron.

"Without or with offense,
To friend or foes,
I sketch your world,
Exactly as it goes"

Mr. Miller spoke on the subject: What is News? He emphasized the fact that for a rural correspondent, just as for any other writer, news is the unusual event, something which does not happen every day. He said:

"If you read your Addison or Woodhull paper—and being correspondents for it I know you do read it—you must know the paper is brim full of news from this district of about 500 square miles, which we cover. Doubtless each one of you sometimes misses items you send in. That is because we are sent so much copy each week we usually have to cut out the least important items. The problem facing your editor is NOT to get ENOUGH "copy" to fill the Advertiser and Sentinel—the real job is to get ALL the IMPORTANT news from our territory and decide what are the LEAST important items we can cut out.

"There is where you can help us, for YOU are the people right out there where the news which interests us is being made. I am sure each one of you IS interested, as I am interested, in making your paper the best paper possible—for it is not YOUR paper alone, nor MY paper alone, but OUR PAPER, and by OUR PAPER I mean the 8,000 to 10,000 people reading OUR PAPER every week. Looking at the matter from that angle, I am sure, should increase our sense of responsibility—yours and mine—towards the other readers of our paper. For actually, a newspaper is a public service organization, and as such it owes to the reading public the best that public can expect to get.

"If I sit down and talk to one person in an idle sort of way, I may, or I may not be careful what I say or how I say it. BUT, if I WRITE something which will probably be read by 8,000 to 10,000 people I shall stop to consider at least 4 things: Is this story unquestionably true? Is this story important enough to interest many readers of OUR paper?—in other words will a number of our readers be GLAD to get the story? Have I told ALL the important facts of this story? And lastly, when it is finished I shall ask myself—'Have I written the story in clear words, well arranged so OUR readers will get the facts without reading the story over two or three times?'

"The answers to those four questions are so important to the news correspondent I could talk about them for two hours without exhausting the subject. However, there is no time for such a lenghy talk, nor do I want to attempt such a lecture—I do not want to talk AT you for two hours, but rather to talk with you for just a few minutes, in the hope of helping each of you to do the GOOD job you are now doing, just a little bit better.

"Just what is news? One of the oldest jokes among newspaper men comes out of that question; 'What is news?' we ask. 'Well, if a dog bites a man—that's not news—but, if a man bites a dog—that IS news.' In other words, news is something which has happened that is more or less UNUSUAL—an event we might say, little or big—which does not happen every day in the week, or every month in the year.

"The times news has actually been made by a man biting a dog—oh it has happened and I have seen it in print — those times could be counted on the finger of one hand. Yet unusual things do happen everywhere—sometimes. If a news writer has the ability to sense the unusual in what is happening about him, or her, we say that writer 'has a NOSE for news'—In other words that writer knows—KNOWS news WHEN IT HAPPENS.

"Now what IS NEWS to the rural newspaper correspondent? What is the unusual—that which does not happen every day in the month. If John Brown builds a new barn—that is news. If farmer Smith's cow has a five-legged calf—that is news. If Mrs. Jones's house burns down—that is news, and all the facts about the fire should be sent in. If someone dies in your neighborhood—that is news and you should write all the important facts, as to how old the person was—what lodges or church they belong to, who they may have married; what children, brothers or sisters they may have left and above all if they have done some outstanding piece of work during life it should be told. Now I am not asking that everyone should be written up as the finest, most prominent, most respected, most beloved person in town, just because they have died. Distorting or overstating one's good qualities is not the part of a correspondent.

"What is news, I might ask again? Well if Earl Brown should try a new way of cultivating his growing corn, and harvested the biggest crop ever grown in the town of Woodhull—that would be BIG news, of great interest to every farmer in Steuben County and the State of New York!

"Now, on the other hand, if Mrs. Smith goes up the road a quarter of a mile to see her daughter every day, or nearly so—if that same item is written in a news letter one or twice a week — unquestionably it ceases to be news and becomes monotonous. But if Mrs. Smith goes from Cameron to Troupsburg for an occasional visit to another daughter—that is news which will be of interest to the people in Cameron and the people around Troupsburg as well. It is just a call on Mrs. Smith's daughter, to be sure, but it is unusual—so it is news.

"As to the actual writing of the actual story which is so necessary to make a paper interesting—that is important, but the fact should not frighten any correspondent out of trying.

"The main thing to consider in an unusual story is to get all the facts. If a correspondent does not feel capable of writing an important story, if he will send these bare facts to the office we can piece them together—but, we cannot guess at facts if the person near the news event when it happens, does not send them in.

"Now if you do actually write these important stories—these unusual events that happen everywhere—there are a few things to consider. Write as plainly as possible so the man who sets your copy into type can read it without effort—be careful about getting names spelled correctly. Use as few words as possible to describe an event, and still make the story clear. Avoid the use of a lot of needless adjectives. Superlative adjectives may sound fairly well in conversation, but in a newspaper story they are only redundant words—they add nothing to the story.

"While we want ALL the actual FACTS in every story, please do not write any story with the idea we need something to fill up space—we never need material to fill space—If a story includes a list of persons who took part in an entertainment of some kind, it is not necessary to repeat those names in telling who was present.

"In closing, I wish to say the editor is really proud of the news content of OUR papers. No one person could ever successfully gather together all the news of a section such as the Advertiser and Sentinel covers—it is only through the fine cooperation of a large group of writers like this, that it is possible to give our readers so much news about the people in southern Steuben County.

"What I have said regarding the writing of news has been said with the desire to be helpful,, not critical of the way you have been writing. You have been doing your best—I am sure—as you understand it. I hope we can help each other to improve.

"I hope that this dinner and evening together will make us all better acquainted. If you have any personal problems, concerning your writing, I wish you would feel free to bring them to the editor, and we will give any help it is humanly possible."

Finishing his remarks the editor introduced James G. Wallace, staff writer, who conducted a question box for the benefit of the correspondents.

Favors for the occasion were fittingly provided from the newspaper plant. A pack of cards bearing his or her name was placed by the place of each guest, together with the linotype slug on which the cards were printed.

Following the close of the discussion, the group adjourned to the office and mechanical plant of the ADVERTISER-SENTINEL where the various processes entering into the production of a weekly newspaper were observed. Then, upon special invitation of Manager Walter A. Smith of the Avon Theatre, the correspondents and their friends witnessed the showing of "Silver Streak" at the local playhouse. The cooperation of the theatre management in helping to make the entertainment an outstanding success is greatly appreciated by the ADVERTISER-SENTINEL.

This paper also appreciates the excellent cooperation of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson B. Payne of the American House who provided a dinner which aroused enthusiastic comments from all in attendance. The carefully arranged advance preparations, prompt and courteous service of the personnel and the painstaking attention to detail of the hotel management and employees was highly pleasing to publishers and guests.

Those in attendance were: Maynard Allen, Ralph E. Mattison, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Church, Miss Dorothy R. Marsh, Mrs. William Evans, Mrs. Flora Mose, Mrs. Clayton Finch, Mr. and Mrs. DeForrest Simons, Mrs. Grace Tompkins, Robert Tompkins, Miss Grace LaBar, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Congressman Cole Votes Majority Will Despite Minority Criticism

Washington, D. C., June—(Special to the Advertiser)—Letters on file in the office of Congressman W. Sterling Cole, 405 House Office Building, indicate that he has kept his pre-election promise to vote as the majority of his constituents requested, regardless of his personal views, as he has long been an exponent of majority rule. The official record of the House of Representatives shows that Mr. Cole has voted upon every major proposition and never sought to evade an issue by remaining from a session or by voting "present".

When the veterans' bonus measure was before the House Mr. Cole received an almost endless stream of letters on subject, members of the American Legion with 80,000 enrolled favoring the Vinson Bill while other veteran organizations, with much smaller memberships, endorsed the Patman Bill for currency inflation. Outside of veteran circles the sentiment in the 37th Congressional District was against the bonus measure, under existing conditions, and overwhelmingly against the Patman Bill that would also have caused an immediate increase in prices for every citizen, veterans included.

Mr. Cole, in keeping with the evident wishes of the majority of his constituents, voted against the Patman Bill and at the same time expressed regret that the various veteran organizations could not agree on one program. John Dwight Sullivan, New York State Department Commander of the American Legion, endorsed this vote in an address, following the veto of the Patman Bill by President Roosevelt, saying:

"The defeat of the Patman Bill may prove a blessing. Rivalry between veteran organizations is to be deplored and results will not be achieved until the former soldiers forget their petty jealousies and work together for their own and the public good."

Immediately after the defeat of the Patman Bill Mr. Cole received in one day three unusual communications. One came from the William Coon Post, No. 2,674, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Watkins Glen, N. Y., signed by Charles H. Taylor, adjutant, and said: "Be it hereby resolved that Congressman Sterling W. Cole is serving his last term in Congress." This post has thirty members.

The second was a telegram from the Hornell V. F. W. which said: "Your vote on Patman Bonus Bill noted. Judas Iscariot did the same thing to Christ 1,900 years ago."

The third was from an Elmira church with 960 members and said: "At our church meeting last night the people took action approving your vote on the Bonus Bill. Our people are greatly disturbed about the lobbying activities of the Legion. They are particularly pleased with your stand."

During the time the Patman Bill was under discussion Mr. Cole received hundreds of letters from business, financial, civic and religious leaders in this district expressing opposition to the inflationary measure on the ground that "printing press money" might plunge veterans, home owners and citizens generally into financial disaster. Mr. Cole is said to believe, however that a bill may be drafted and approved by the next Congress that will be satisfactory to veterans and public alike.

Motorists Are Cautioned Avoid Foolish Chances

Albany, N. Y., June 18 — Summer's arrival opens the vacation touring season. It also marks the closing of schools throughout the State, and thousands of children on the street will add to the responsibility of the motorist.

In the New York State accident record for 1934 there were 5,991 accidents involving children at play in the street. In these mishaps 142 children were killed and 5,849 injured. This is a record that should not be repeated. One way to lessen the number of street accidents is found in the plea of a police chief to parents: "Warn your children not to play in the streets."

A county in the West with four high schools and a total of 47 public and parochial schools has not lost the life of a school child in two years. Community interest in street safety and the systematic training in safety for school children account for the record, a model for all localities.

Charles A. Harnett, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, urges both motorists and pedestrians to look out for emergencies. In the summer months when the exposure to traffic increases, the careful motorist is watchful and alert.

Honking a horn may frighten those in the path of an automobile but it does not give the driver the right of way or relieve him of responsibility. The highway is not the exclusive property of the motorist, and when children are in dangerous locations automobiles should slow down or stop until the road is clear. Pedestrians are cautioned against taking foolish chances. An excellent rule to follow is to look in both directions before attempting to cross a street.

Donations Asked For Health Camp

The Steuben County Tuberculosis and Public Health Association purchased the present site of the Steuben County Health Camp in 1923. The property consists of one acre of land on which stands a large main building in which is located dining room and recreation room with piano, victrola, couches, chairs and a small library of children's books, well equipped kitchen with hot and cold water and refrigerator, two bedrooms and a store room.

The sleeping quarters for the children and nurses are in a separate building equipped with cots. There are four rooms, two each for the boys and girls, also two lavatories and a shower.

The purpose of this camp is to care for children who need special care through the summer so they will be well and strong enough to attend school a full school year.

No children are taken to this camp from the cities of Hornell or Corning, they maintain separate camps.

Every summer children have been cared for at the Steuben Co., Health Camp who had never been able because of sickness to attend school a full school year and because of the change, regular hours special diets, many of these boys and girls are able to withstand colds and children deseases and are able to attend school full time.

Can there be any greater joy in life than to make children happy and well?

The organization hopes every town in the county will do their bit in making contributions. No amount can be too large or too small.

Who will be the first to mail their contribution to Rev. Harry Somers, Canisteo, N. Y.?

Donations are coming in slowly the largest amount from an organization that knows the need sent $100.00. A little girl sent 25c saying she "knew a little girl that was at camp last year and she hoped she could go this year because she is sick a lot and can't play with me."

Charles Salerno Elected New President of Addison Ad Club

Addison attorney succeeds Frederick C. Wilcox, retiring head of Addison business group — Village Board petitioned to mark parking lines on Main Street, make limited parking zone—Commander and boys from CCC camp entertain men.

Charles M. Salerno, Addison attorney, was elected president of the Addison Advertising Club at the annual meeting held Wednesday noon. Mr. Salerno succeeds Fred C. Wilcox who has held the post for the past year, but asked to be relieved of the responsibility. Other officers elected were Dr. M. F. Whitmore, vice president and Ralph B. Dykins, secretary.

Preceding the election of officers the club adopted a resolution petitioning the village board to provide parking marks upon the pavement along Main street, and to establish a zone on the street, limiting parking time to 30 minutes Saturday afternoons and evenings. A motion was also passed that members of the Ad Club refrain from parking their own cars anywhere along Main street Saturdays, except for periods of 30 minutes.

The entertainment committee presented Captain J. F. Brink and a group of three young men from the CCC camp at Morris Run. Captain Brink gave a brief outline of the history of the CCC camp movement, and told of some of the work accomplished by these young men and the benefits they derive from life in the open. He then introduced two of the members of his camp, Messrs. Knight and Highster, who gave a short musical program, and James Gallagher who brought roars of laughter from the group with an original mixed radio impersonation.

Guests present were Owen Reynolds, Miles Kelly, Robert Ginnane and Mr. Ryan of Morris Run. It was announced the meeting was the last before the summer vacation. The luncheon was served in the dining room of the Methodist Church.

Jasper High Gains 5-4 Decision Over Troupsburg in Playoff at Knoxville for West Steuben Title

Playing of Joe Lewis is feature of game — Willover injures leg while sliding into second in third inning —Cady leads Troupsburg hitters—Bradford wins, 4-3, in county championship tilt at Bath.

Jasper High and Troupsburg High sent their crack baseball players and large numbers of enthusiastic supporters to the Tri-County diamond at Knoxville on June 12, to decide the championship of the western section of Steuben County. Each team had won an equal number of games and the play-off gave Jasper the decision by a 9-4 score. Both teams were in fine shape and the game promised considerable action.

Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the game was the brilliant playing of Smokey Joe Lewis, Jasper's versatile shortstop. Besides leading the Jasper hitters with a single and a triple in four trips to the plate, Lewis made a beautiful running stop on a hard-hit grounder in the fourth and got the ball over to first in time for the put-out. Again in the seventh, after a long run, he leaped high in the air and speared a line drive that had a round trip ticket all written for it. His brilliant fielding robbed Troupsburg of two hits and undoubtedly broke their morale for the inning, as in both innings they retired without accomplishing anything.

Pitcher Willover had the misfortune to injure a leg while sliding into second in the third inning and pulled himself in the fourth. Walrath was called in from first base and pitched fine ball, allowing but one run in three and one-half innings.

Pitcher Resue was yanked during the first inning in favor of Clark. Clark pitched his arm off in the second, third and fourth innings and gave way to White in the fifth. White was nicked for but one hit in the remainder of the game.

Howard Cady led the Troupsburg hitters with a double and two singles in four trips to the plate. A brace of singles by White was Troupsburg next best.

Jasper High School's pennant hungry baseball team will go unfed for another year as the result of their dropping a 4-3 decision to Bradford at Soldier's Field in Bath on June 14. Jasper's ace moundsman, Robert Swan, pitched excellent baseball and but for the errors of his team would have won his game 3-1. Starting off in fine form, Swan struck out three of the first nine batters to oppose him and caused the other six to ground out to the infield. The greatest fly in his soup, however, was the fact that T. Vine was doing the same thing to the Jasper batters, although Mcmindes broke the ice with a lone single in the second. It was a pitcher's duel extraordinary thruout the game. Swan was nicked for four singles, Vine for three. Vine stowed away eight of the Jasper hitters with a nice hook, which he threw constantly. Swan had the edge on control, walking but two batters, while Vine passed three and hit one.

LaChance, With Four Bingles, Stars at Addison-Knoxville Fracas

Addison backstop raps out four safeties to bring in all runs scored by local nine—Grange and Hadlock contribute two apiece—Fielding weakness accounts for many Knoxville scores.

The Addison Tri-Cos lost to Knoxville Sunday, 17 to 6. The game was marred by an injury to George LaChance in the third inning when one of the Knoxville players, sliding for home, collided with the Addison backstop, giving George a bloody nose and chopping a couple of his front teeth.

Addison pushed over a run in the first inning when Wade gained life at first by virtue of a dropped third strike. A walk and a hit sent the runner over the plate for the first score of the game. In the second, Knoxville scored six runs through two or three outfield errors and a couple of healthy wallops.

Following the injury to LaChance in the third, the battery team of Hopper and LaChance gave way to Wade and Stowell, George going to second and Smokey Joe to right field. With two men already out, Wade retired the next man. The Quaker Staters, however, had already pushed over four markers in this stanza. Due largely to faulty fielding, they managed to count for three more in the fifth and sixth. A similar weakness plagued the Addison team in the eighth when Knoxville garnered four additional counters.

LaChance was the batting star of the day with four safeties to his credit. All of Addison's runs were brought in by George's timely clouts. Grange and Hadlock were next in line with two apiece.

Addison Umpire Incensed At Ruling of League

Action of the officials of the Steuben County Interscholastic League in overruling the forfeiture of the Hornell game to Addison, owing to stalling on the part of the Hornell players, was strongly condemned in a statement to the ADVERTISER yesterday by Dennis J. O'Keefe, umpire in the disputed contest.

"This thing is an outrage", said Mr. O'Keefe, "if they had really wanted a fair and unbiased opinion, if they really wanted to get at the true and underlying facts in the matter, then why wasn't I consulted and my story heard before a decision was rendered overturning my decision.

"I have umpired in professional baseball for twenty-one years and this is the most flagrant case of stalling I have ever experienced. Sportsmanship is supposed to be one of the principal objectives of interscholastic contests. This incident, however, revealed anything but the sportsmanship which high school coaches and players are expected to portray. Then to have the governing body of the league come along and kick over the disciplinary action which this case certainly deserved--oh, well, what's the use?"

"In all my umpiring experience, this is the first time that a decision of mine has been reversed. In view of the attitude of the league officials in establishing such a precedent as this, there will be little comfort or little authority left for the umpire under certain circumstances which may arise in the future. The umpire is supposedly vested with authority to run the game as it should be run and to take disciplinary action to cope with just such flagrant and provoking cases of stalling and unruliness as this. But now that an umpire's ruling has been successfully defied and what is more, a reversal issued without the umpire's side of the case even being heard, it clearly demonstrates that in this league there is and will be little authority left to the man charged with the proper conduct of the game.

"You can say for me, that I shall stand by the decision as originally rendered and I maintain that any umpire who knows his business and with an ounce of backbone would have taken exactly the action which I took, in view of the tactics adopted by the Hornell coach and players on that afternoon.

Woodhull Spikes Addison Guns

The Woodhull Cardinals walloped the Addison Mohawks in Addison's introduction to Little Six ball at Tuscarora Field Sunday afternoon. The final score was 14 to 7.

Bob Elliott, on the hill for the Cards, pitched smart and steady ball throughout the game. Woodhull started off with a commanding lead in the first inning. Meyers, the Addison hurler, encountered a streak of wildness and allowed four passes. A hit or two sandwiched in put the Cards four runs to the good. George Hopper thereupon took up the pitching burden and retired the next three batters in a row.

Leopold, a former Westfield Tri-County League player, was the leading sticker for the visitors. For the Mohawks, Jimmy Kelly, Keed Hibbard and Hopper were the big shots. the score:

Glass Works Nine Here Sunday

Flynn, Robbins and Beers, Drafted From Championship High School Nine to Bolster Local Tri-Cos During Remainder of Campaign —Hickey Boys Also to Be Seen in Action.

The Corning Glass Works, winner of the 1934 pennant in the Tri-County League, will oppose Manager John O'Keefe's Addison team at Tuscarora Field next Sunday afternoon. The CGW nine has been sailing along near the top of the heap in the current campaign and a big turnout is anticipated to see them in action against the local Tri-Cos.

O'Keefe's charges will be augmented by several of the high school Knights, fresh from their achievement in copping the county scholastic championship. Lefty Flynn and Maurce Robbins, the star battery which bore the brunt of the Addison defense during the thick of the pennant fight, are expected to see service against the Corning nine. Glenn Beers, peppery third baseman, is another of the Knights who has been called in to bolster up the Tri-Cos. Phil and Charles Hickey are expected home from Fordham before Sunday and will likely resume their customary places in the line-up, at centerfield and short, respectively.

George LaChance will be at second, Wendell Hewson at second, Grange in left and Blazer Hadlock in right. The new alignment is expected to add plenty of strength, both at bat and in the field, and the Glass Workers will be in for a disillusionment if they interpret the recent Addison defeats as presaging a pushover at Tuscarora Field.

Old Man Jinx Follows Aces Into Tall Grass on Lindley Field

Hovey's steamrollers roll over Jasper combine when pinch-hitter Brennan plants ball in unmowed grass back of short and rounds bags as Jasperites hunt frantically—Phone line robs Stone of homer.

The Jasper Aces penetrated even deeper into the league cellar by dropping a 4-3 thriller to Lindley on the Lindley diamond Sunday afternoon. After taking the count in five out of six games, the Aces admit that someone must have cast a jinx upon them. Having lost four games by one point, and having outhit their opponents in every game they have engaged in, they firmly believe that some unknown person has aimed an evil eye in their direction. Take for example Sunday's game at Lindley. The score was tied in the seventh inning and pinch hitter Brennan dropped a Texas leaguer over second with one aboard. Ordinarily the runner on first would have to pull up at second as shortstop Dempsey was almost under the ball when it landed. But the old jinx had been at work again.

The Lindley team had started to mow the high grass on the diamond and the mower broke down just before they completed the job and the ball landed in the high grass and was lost to view. Eight members of the Aces converged on the spot and hunted frantically while Brennan rounded the bases and scored the winning run. Part of the Lindley team come out and engaged in the hunt before the ball was found. Then in the eighth, with one aboard, Stone hammered out a long wallop over the left fielder's head. This hit was good for a round trip in any ball park, but the old jinx came into play again. Far out in the field, a telephone line crossed the field, so what did the jinx do but guide the ball straight into that line bounced it right back to left-fielder Riffle, who returned it to hold Stone on third, where he was left stranded with the tying run. Anyway, the Aces say that can't happen next Sunday, as they play on the Freeman diamond and there isn't a telephone line within miles of that spot.

Swimming Stunt Here Thursday Evening

Andy Gault, swimming stuntist of Clinton. Iowa, is expected to put on an exhibition in the Canisteo River near the Addison Main street bridge Thursday evening, June 20 at seven o'clock.

He says he will swim about on back and breast while fully dressed including coat and overcoat, and tied in a chair, with feet tied, knees tied and hands fastened tightly to chair edge. In addition, a large gunny sack will be thrown over his head, reaching to his feet. The chair will be weighted with sufficient irons to make it sink.

Gault, wno is a country printer-editor of the third generation, is known from coast to coast for his remarkable swimming performances and has several times been photoed for news reels and Sunday rotogravure sections. He considers this stunt the most difficult thing in this line that he has yet attempted.

Coach Hewson's Clan Defeats Painted Post To Clinch Title

Heavy stick work of Addison boys bring victory in final game with Indians—Hornell goes out of running with loss to C. F. A.—New champions superior in many departments of the game.

The Addison High School Knights clinched the Steuben County baseball championship Friday by defeating the Painted Post Indians on their own grounds 12 to 8. This victory squashed any claims Hornell might have advanced, for the Maple City crew were dropping their last game to C.F.A. on the same afternoon. Addison's victory gave the Knights a fine percentage of .800 for the season, they having won 8 games and lost only two in competition with the biggest schools in the county.

Friday's game was put in the Addison win column because the local sluggers could wallop the ball when hits meant runs. Beers, Robbins, Hallet, Hickey and Mathews solved Winnie's delivery early in the game to give Flynn a nice lead to work on. Lefty pitched a fine game up until the last inning when he became wild his passes and some errors by the Addison infield giving Coach Hewson some bad moments before the third man was retired in the seventh.

Robbins continued the heavy stick work which has characterized his play during the late games of the 1935 season, smashing out two doubles and a single in five times at bat. Beers also collected three hits including one two-bagger. Hallet and Hickey had two safe blows each. Mathews one safe drive was a hard hit double. Gillespie, Beers and Gardner ran wild on the paths, the first mentioned stealing two bases.

Like many another game this year, the Knights won from the Post because they could smash out the hits, a total of 14 being garnered from the delivery of Winnie, who is rated as one of the best pitchers in the county league.

Great credit is due Coach Hewson for developing the 1935 Championship baseball team which has ridden rampant over the other nines of the league, bowing only to Corning Northside and Bath in two games which seemed to have been won. To make a winning ball club Mr. Hewson had to use his ingenuity in making two outfielders over into infielders and developing a winning outfield combination from a group of rookies. He had two good infielders in Beers and Hallet, a stellar pitcher in Flynn and the most outstanding catcher to cavort about this county in many years in Robbins.

If there has been one outstanding reason for the Knights galloping through to the championship it has been the great backstopping of Robbins. Time after time opposing nines have put men on bases in early innings and tried to steal only to be cut off at second by "Robbie's" rifle shots. A few lessons like that has taught the county base runners to stay close to first, and this mastery of the runners has given the Knights an immeasurable advantage in every game. Flynn has pitched consistent ball all season and his slants have held the county hitters to a minimum of safe blows. He has been augmented by John Smith a freshman who promises to be the league's outstanding pitcher next season.

Hickey on first base has developed into a good infielder and has come through with many a needed hit in the pinches. Red Mathews drafted to the second base job has fitted into the keystone position easily, forming a fine double-play combination with Bob Hallet, an unusually steady short-stop. Beers on third base has killed many a potential hit at the hot corner and, his dash and vim have kept the team fighting all the time. Gardner, Dominick and Gillespie have done a fine job in the outfield gathering in many flies which looked like safe hits. Hulse, Little and Gable have done utility work in the infield and outfield, filing vacancies in capable style.

The Knights have won most of their games because they have been able to hit when hits meant runs. It has been remarkable how timely hits have come from the nine, from top to bottom of the batting list. If the murder's row-Beers, Hallet, Robbins, Mathews, were off in hitting for a day then Dominick, Gardner, Hickey and Gillespie have come through with the needed blows.

Altogether the 1935 Knights have proved themselves to be real baseball champions. They have hit the ball hard, run the bases with dash and fearlessness and fielded effectively all season. The pitchers have proved to be the best in the league as the earned run records will show. Champions they are because they have outplayed every other team in the league.

GREENWOOD

Sunday was fittingly observed in the M. E. Church as Father's Day. The Rev. Shirley L. Travis, pastor, spoke from these words, "Honor Thy Father". One of the hymns sung was, "Faith of our Fathers". The service made some do some deep thinking in regard to how father should be reverenced and honored in the home, not a mere pocket book or some one to settle the bills.

Saturday evening the young people will present to the public a stunt night at the church at 7:30 at a nominal price. It is hoped a good attendance will be present to enjoy the program. The proceeds will be used for the Silver Lake fund.

The subject of the sermon by the pastor next Sunday morning will be "A Burning Bush for Every Day".

The Epworth League reatized about $15.00 from their sale of ice cream Saturday toward the Silver Lake fund.

J. K. Miller was in Andover and Wellsville Monday on business.

Daniel Redmond, Jr., of Avoca called on friends in town Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Smith of Whitesville visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Atwell Sunday.

A sister of Miss Maxine Armstrong from Elmira spent Sunday here with her.

Miss Grace Young accompanied Miss Ruth Rudman home to Brockport for the week-end.

Bernard Murray, who has been very ill with heart trouble is reported a trifle better at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Miller called on Mr. and Mrs. Homer Sherwood Friday while on their way to Addison to attend the Southern Tier News banquet given by Southern Tier News to the correspondents and employees.

The George Williams family reunion will be held at the North Jasper Grange Hall on Saturday, June 22.

Those who attended the P. T. A. picnic and art exhibit report a good time and state the art exhibit was very good.

"Girl of Limberlost" Coming Sunday

Gene Stratton-Porter's famous story, "A Girl of the Limberlost," comes to the AVON Theatre for the midnight Saturday, also Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, a three day run, with Louise, Dresser, Ralph Morgan, Marian Marsh and H. B. Walthall playing the leading roles.

One of the most famous of American novelists, Mrs. Porter's stories of middle western life are listed high in the ranks of best sellers, with two of her books, including "A Girl if the Limberlost," at the top of the list. More than 1,750,000 copies of the novel have been sold since its initial publication in 1910, and it is estimated that the novel has been read by more than 12,000,000 persons.

An outstanding picture at the time it was brought to the screen in the silent days, "A Girl of the Limberlost," produced as a talking picture by Monogram, has been acclaimed by critics as one of the most faithful screen versions of a popular novel ever produced. All the flavor of the Porter original has been preserved, and Monogram officials had the assistance through out the entire preparation and production period of Mrs. Jeannette Porter Meehan, daughter of Mrs. Porter, for whom the book was written.

Louise Dresser plays the difficult role of Katherine Comstock, the girl's mother, while Miss Marsh plays the title role. Ralph Morgan is Wesley Sinton. H. B. Walthall appears as Dr. Ammon. Helen Jerome Eddy is Margaret Sinton, while Betty Blythe, famous star of several years ago, makes her appearance in a character role as "The Bird Woman." Eddie Nugent, famed as a comedian, gives a sympathetic portrayal to the role of Phillip Ammon. while GiGi Parrish, Wampus baby star, plays Edith Carr.

Although the amount of leisure time does not differ among farm and city women, farm women spend more of their time in study and meetings and less on talks and visits than do city women.

Standard Bearers Enjoy Weiner Roast

The Standard Bearers of the M. E. Church held their regular meeting June 15 at Goodhue Lake. A business meeting was held followed by devotions after which a weiner roast was enjoyed. The following were present: Madeline Short, Betty Pepper, Mrs. Frances Dininny, Helen Kneaskern, Louise Watkins, Marian Dann, Lucille Chart, Wilma Burlingame, Ardis Warfle, Vesta Wilson, Evelyn Sherwood, a guest Elizabeth Dignen of Freeman, counselor Mrs. George Dininny and Richard Dininny.

Mrs. Emma Hobart of Grand Rapids, Mich., who has been a recent guest of Mrs. Albert Loper is now visiting her niece, Mrs. John Crowl in Lawrenceville. Mrs. Hobert is remembered by Addison residents, having spent her younger days in this vicinity. A sister, Mrs. Lucy Rice, of Montour Falls is the widow of the Rev. Rice, a former rector of the Church of the Redeemer. Mrs. Hobart, who is eighty-two years of age, made this trip for the purpose of helping in the celebration of the ninetieth birthday anniversary of another sister who resides in Westfield.

GRADUATION SUITS

The young man who is to be graduated ought to look as good as he feels. He and his proud parents will attend to his feelings—we will attend to his looks.

We have taken special care this season in selecting suitable wearing apparel for this occasion. And we are satisfied we can save you money on the necessary outfit for the young man who is about to take part in this important event.

Young men's suits, pinch-back sport models or plain two-button single breasted models in all the new shades, at $9.90 to $16.50.

Slacks in white or in fancy colors; new dress shirts, new neckties and new summer hats. Oxfords in white, two-tone, plain brown or black.

You will save money by trading here—they all say so, now come and see what you think about it.
